

New Artist - Leonie Gürtner

By Jerry Sindelar

When I found that my friend's granddaughter is a talented painter who painted all the varieties of the Brunner Pouter breed for their specialty club, I asked her if she would agree to share her work with more pigeon breeders by publishing these pictures in Purebred Pigeon. She agreed.

The Brunner Pouter is a very popular and well-known Pouter breed around the world. Pictures of this breed are known from almost two centuries ago, and many famous artists have this breed on his/her list. One of them is this rising star Leonie Gürtner of Germany. Her grandfather, who introduced her to our wonderful pigeon world, is the well-known breeder and judge Erwin Sedlmeier, president of the European Brunner Club and creator of the Essench Pouters.

These pictures were painted and devoted to the German Club on its anniversary; they represent each variety and its resemblance with familiar objects.
